Introduction

One of the distinctive characteristics of the United Bible Societies’ (UBS) translation program is its involvement in scholarly editions and helps for translators. Bible Society personnel have contributed significantly to the development of the theory and practice of translation, and have also provided a wide range of scholarly and practical tools for Bible translators. These materials are generally classified as “Helps for Translators.” These include the UBS Handbooks, the journal The Bible Translator, as well as other books that deal either with theory or practical things such as how to prepare Bible manuscripts indexes.

Another facet of this program is the publication of scholarly editions. These include the Greek and Hebrew texts used by translators, and materials based on those texts, such as synopses of the four Gospels or Bible dictionaries. Work on these materials is sponsored by the Bible Societies, and often involves some Bible Society personnel, as well as other scholars. In most cases publication is by Bible Societies, although some of the materials have been handled by commercial publishers.

All of this work is carried out with the express purpose of assisting the process of Bible translation. But the value of these materials is not limited to translators. Any teacher or student of biblical languages will find a number of Bible Society publications on his or her bookshelf. The Bible Societies are major developers and distributors of Greek and Hebrew texts. The scholarship that has gone into the editing and preparation of those texts is acknowledged as being the very finest, and thus scholars everywhere rely on our materials.

We are finding, too, that the UBS Handbooks are useful to pastors, Bible students, Sunday School teachers, and others interested in knowing more about the Bible. The material is practical and yet scholarly.

This catalog is a listing of publications that support the UBS translation program. Included are the scholarly editions of the source texts used for Scripture translation, and helps for translators.

Ordering and Prices

UBS publications may be obtained through your national Bible Society (click “Bible Societies by Area” on the home menu to find your Bible Society). Prices are not listed here because they will depend on shipping and handling costs of individual Bible Societies. A number of Bible Societies have online bookstores, including:

Biblical Texts

Hebrew Scriptures

Biblia Hebraica Quinta in fascicles
A. Schenker and others, editors.
These are the first fascicles of a new edition of Biblia Hebraica. The whole edition should be completed by 2015. It is a diplomatic text of the Leningrad Codex, cited from new color photographs. The large and small Masorah of the Leningrad Codex are included. The layout of poetic texts corresponds as closely as possible to the Masoretic accentuation. Indications of parallel texts are given on each page as necessary. A single apparatus is found at the bottom of each page. Text-critical cases are generated and noted in the apparatus when a pre-Tiberian witness arguably, but not necessarily, witnesses a Hebrew text that differs from the Tiberian text. Each book is accompanied by a commentary.

Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia
K. Elliger and W. Rudolph, editors.
This edition of the Hebrew Bible is a revision of Kittel’s Biblia Hebraica, prepared by H. P. Rüger and numerous other scholars on the basis of the St. Petersburg Public Library manuscript B19a, with a thorough revision of the Masoretic apparatus by G. E. Weil. The complete small Masorah is printed in the margin, and an apparatus refers the reader to the large Masorah, printed separately. There is a foreword in German, English, French, Spanish, and Latin. It also includes an English and German key to the Latin words and abbreviations. 1967/77; 5th corrected printing prepared by A. Schenker, 1997. 1629 p.

Preliminary and Interim Report on the Hebrew Old Testament Text Project

Edited by a UBS committee, including D. Barthélemy, A. R. Hulst, N. Lohfink, W. D. McHardy, H. P. Rüger and J. A. Sanders, with A. Schenker and J. A. Thompson as secretaries to the committee.

As distinct from the critical apparatus in Biblia Hebraica Stuttgartensia, the work of the Hebrew Old Testament Text Project deals only with those textual variants that involve significant differences in meaning for translators. For each textual decision an indication of the relative degree of certainty is given.

The Greek New Testament

4th revised edition
B. Aland, K. Aland, J. Karavidopoulos, C. M. Martini, and B. M. Metzger, editors.

This Greek text, established by an international and interconfessional committee, is identical with that of the 26th and 27th editions of Novum Testamentum Graece by Nestle-Aland except for some minor punctuation differences. The apparatus includes only those textual variants that involve significant differences in meaning for translators. For each variant, extensive manuscript evidence is cited, and an indication is given of the relative degree of certainty for each textual decision. A separate apparatus provides information on major differences in punctuation. The Introduction and section headings are in English. The appendices include: index of quotations (both in OT and NT order), index of allusions and verbal parallels, list of principal manuscripts and versions, and list of principal symbols and abbreviations. The text in this 4th edition is the same as in the 3rd edition (1983). However, the selection of passages for the apparatus has undergone considerable revision. The evaluations of all sets of variants cited in the apparatus have been reconsidered.

The UBS Greek New Testament: A Reader’s Edition

Running dictionary compiled by Barclay M. Newman.

This edition combines the Bible text of the 4th revised edition of the UBS Greek New Testament with a running Greek-English Dictionary that provides translations of all vocabulary items occurring 30 times or less in the New Testament at the bottom of each page. Translations are given according to context, with definitions of idiomatic word combinations and grammatical analysis of all difficult verb forms. The reader-friendly layout enables the reader to transfer easily from text to dictionary and vice versa. An appendix provides translations of all vocabulary items occurring more than 30 times in the New Testament. Includes the maps from the UBS Greek New Testament.

Novum Testamentum Graece
Nestle-Aland 27th edition
Reedited at the Institute for New Testament Textual Research Münster/Westphalia under the direction of Barbara and Kurt Aland. The text of this edition is identical to that of the 26th edition, but the critical apparatus and the appendices have been thoroughly revised. Those textual witnesses that are essential to the constitution and the history of the text are more precisely selected and clearly arranged. A new appendix deals with special information regarding the source material. The new introduction provides an easier access to the volume and the slightly enlarged format improves the readability.

Novum Testamentum Graecum
Editio Critica Maior
Published by the Institute for New Testament Textual Research, Münster.
The Editio Critica Maior of the New Testament exhibits the history of the Greek text through its first millennium as documented in manuscripts from the second century onward. It provides scholars engaged in the tasks of exegesis and textual criticism with all the relevant materials found in Greek manuscripts, patristic citations, and the versions. The evidence cited includes many textually significant manuscripts that have hitherto been either slighted or completely ignored. This now opens the way for a new understanding of the history of the text.

The Gospel according to John in the Byzantine tradition

R. Mullen, editor, with S. Crisp and D. C. Parker.

This text-critical edition of the Gospel of John illustrates the breadth of the Byzantine textual tradition. As the base text a specific Byzantine manuscript (minuscule 35) was used. The apparatus indicates the differences within the most important Byzantine manuscripts of John. In addition, differences compared to the Nestle-Aland edition are listed.

All Creatures Great and Small: Living Things in the Bible
This illustrated book describes animals and other living creatures of the Bible. The creatures are classified in six categories: 1) mammals; 2) birds; 3) snakes and lizards; 4) fish, frogs, and mollusks; 5) insects, spiders, and worms; and 6) mythical monsters. In addition to a discussion on each creature, translation suggestions are given along with the primary Biblical references. This book also includes the following helpful indices: general, animals, scientific animal names, geographical names, Scripture references, and Hebrew, Aramaic, Greek, and Latin terms.

Fauna and Flora of the Bible
Prepared in cooperation with the Committee on Translations of the United Bible Societies.
This illustrated book gives suggestions for satisfactory equivalents for terms for different plants and animals mentioned in the Bible. The 1980 edition has, in addition to the original index of English and Latin terms, indexes of Greek, Hebrew and Aramaic terms, terms from other languages, and biblical references.
Lynell Zogbo and Ernst R. Wendland.
The features of Biblical poetry are explained in a careful way that will aid translators to reproduce an equivalent in their own languages. However, all Bible readers will learn from the first three chapters how to read, understand, and appreciate the many features of Biblical poetry.

UBS Monographs

Introduction
The UBS Monograph Series was established to provide an outlet for significant research in the field of translation.

1. Sociolinguistics and Communication
J. P. Louw, editor.
This book studies the complex array of cultural factors and interpersonal relationships that transform and define the meaning of a text. 1986. 21 x 14.5 cm. ix, 146 p. Paperback
GSS 0900185155

2. The Cultural Factor in Bible Translation
Ernst R. Wendland.
This is a study of communicating the Word of God in a Central African cultural context. The immediate focus is the range of difficulties encountered in two East African languages, Chichewa and Chitonga, but the theoretical framework makes the study instructive for anyone grappling with cross-cultural translation problems. 1987. 21 x 14.5 cm. xii, 221 p. Paperback
